

Conclusions on Pearson Education's business separation measures – awarding and publishing

Erratum notice, 13th August 2013

This notice corrects information that was provided in Conclusions on Pearson Education's business separation measures – awarding and publishing on page 5.

In section 4, 'Evidence review', measures and policies put in place are explained against each risk.

Under the risk 'Adequacy of business separation measures to protect qualification standards from commercial pressures', the second bullet point should read:

- Other organisational structural changes have split a team previously responsible for the product management of qualifications and resources into separate teams.
