Introduction

About this document

This document (highlighted in the figure below) is part of a suite of documents which sets out the regulatory requirements for awarding organisations offering GCSE qualifications (graded from 9 to 1).

We have developed these requirements with the intention that GCSE qualifications (graded from 9 to 1) should fulfil the following purposes:

- To provide evidence of students' achievements against demanding and fulfilling content;
- To provide a strong foundation for further academic and vocational study and for employment; and
- To provide (if required) a basis for schools and colleges to be held accountable for the performance of all of their students.

Requirements set out in this document

This document sets out the GCSE Subject Level Conditions for Film Studies. These conditions will come into effect at 5.01pm on Friday 13 May 2016 for all GCSE qualifications (graded from 9 to 1) in Film Studies.

It also sets out our requirements in relation to:

- assessment objectives – awarding organisations must comply with these requirements under Condition GCSE(Film Studies)1.2; and
- assessment – awarding organisations must comply with these requirements under Condition GCSE(Film Studies)2.3

Appendix 1 reproduces the requirements in relation to subject content for GCSE Film Studies,¹ as published by the Department for Education. Awarding organisations must comply with these requirements under Condition GCSE(Film Studies)1.1.

With respect to GCSE qualifications (graded from 9 to 1) in Film Studies, awarding organisations must also comply with:

- our General Conditions of Recognition,² which apply to all awarding organisations and qualifications; and
- our GCSE Qualification Level Conditions,³ and
- all relevant Regulatory Documents.⁴

With respect to GCSE qualifications graded from A* to G, awarding organisations must continue to comply with the General Conditions of Recognition, and the relevant Regulatory Documents.

Condition Assessment
GCSE(Film Studies)2

GCSE(Film Studies)2.1	Condition GCSE4.1 does not apply to any GCSE Qualification in Film Studies which an awarding organisation makes available or proposes to make available.
GCSE(Film Studies)2.2	In respect of the total marks available for a GCSE Qualification in Film Studies which it makes available, an awarding organisation must ensure that – <ul style="list-style-type: none">(a) 70 per cent of those marks are made available through Assessments by Examination, and(b) 30 per cent of those marks are made available through assessments set by the awarding organisation that are not Assessments by Examination.
GCSE(Film Studies)2.3	An awarding organisation must ensure that in respect of each assessment for a GCSE Qualification in Film Studies which it makes available it complies with any requirements, and has regard to any guidance, which may be published by Ofqual and revised from time to time.

Assessment objectives

Assessment objectives – GCSE Qualifications in Film Studies

Condition GCSE(Film Studies)1.2 allows us to specify requirements relating to the objectives to be met by any assessment for GCSE Qualifications in Film Studies.

The assessment objectives set out below constitute requirements for the purposes of Condition GCSE(Film Studies)1.2. Awarding organisations must comply with these requirements in relation to all GCSE Qualifications in Film Studies they make available.

	Objective	Weighting
AO1	Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of elements of film.	30%
AO2	Apply knowledge and understanding of elements of film, including to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ analyse and compare films ■ analyse and evaluate own work in relation to other professionally produced work. 	50%
AO3	Apply knowledge and understanding of elements of film to the production of film or screenplay.	20%

Assessment requirements

Assessment requirements – GCSE Qualifications in Film Studies

Condition GCSE(Film Studies)2.3 allows us to specify requirements in relation to assessments for GCSE Qualifications in Film Studies.

We set out below our requirements for the purposes of Condition GCSE(Film Studies)2.3. Awarding organisations must comply with these requirements in relation to all GCSE Qualifications in Film Studies they make available.

Non-examination Assessment

Condition GCSE(Film Studies)2.2(b) states that an awarding organisation must ensure that, of the total marks available for a GCSE Qualification in Film Studies, 30 per cent of those marks are made available through assessments that are not Assessments by Examination.

In respect of that 30 per cent, an awarding organisation must ensure that the marks are comprised as follows –

- (a) 10 per cent through marks made available in respect of assessment objective AO2, and
- (b) 20 per cent through marks made available in respect of assessment objective AO3 (i.e. assessing AO3 in its entirety).

In relation to paragraph (a) above, a Learner's analysis and evaluation of his or her own work in relation to other, professionally produced, work must only be assessed through the assessments that are not Assessments by Examination.

In respect of the assessments that are not Assessments by Examination, an awarding organisation must ensure that each Learner is required to complete a single task which –

- (a) requires that Learner to produce a genre-based extract from a film or screenplay and an analysis and evaluation of that production in relation to other films and screenplays,
- (b) ensures that the only evidence which will be admissible in the assessment is either –
 - (i) an extract from a genre-based film in response to a brief set by the awarding organisation and an evaluative analysis of that extract against other, professionally produced, films, or

- (ii) an extract from a genre-based screenplay in response to a brief set by the awarding organisation, a shooting script of a key section from the screenplay extract, and an evaluative analysis of the extract against other, professionally produced, screenplays, and
- (c) must be taken under conditions specified by the awarding organisation, including, in particular, conditions which ensure that the evidence generated by each Learner can be Authenticated.

An awarding organisation may set more than one brief, although the evidence generated by each Learner, as described above, must respond only to a single brief.

Marking of assessments

Evidence generated by a Learner in an assessment for a GCSE Qualification in Film Studies which is not an Assessment by Examination may be marked –

- (a) by the awarding organisation or a person connected to the awarding organisation,
- (b) by a Centre, or
- (c) through a combination of (a) and (b).

In any event, the awarding organisation must demonstrate to Ofqual's satisfaction in its assessment strategy that –

- (a) it has taken all reasonable steps to identify the risk of any Adverse Effect which may result from its approach to marking the assessments (and to Moderation where appropriate), and
- (b) where such a risk is identified, it has taken all reasonable steps to prevent that Adverse Effect or, where it cannot be prevented, to mitigate that Adverse Effect.

The content for GCSE film studies

Introduction

1. GCSE subject content sets out the knowledge, understanding and skills common to all specifications in a given subject. Together with the assessment objectives, it provides the framework within which the awarding organisations create the detail of their specification, so ensuring the possibilities for progression to AS and A level or employment.

Aims and objectives

2. GCSE specifications in film studies must offer a coherent and rigorous course of study. All specifications will enable students to develop knowledge and understanding of:

- the ways in which meanings and responses are generated through film
- a contrasting, culturally diverse range of films from different national contexts
- film as an aesthetic¹ medium
- the relationship between film and film technology over time
- how films reflect the social, cultural and political contexts in which they are made

3. Specifications will also enable students to apply their knowledge and understanding of film to filmmaking and screenwriting.

Subject content

4. GCSE specifications in film studies must enable students to demonstrate knowledge, understanding and skills in the exploration and analysis of film and to demonstrate their knowledge and understanding of film by creating a genre-based extract either from a film or from a screenplay.

Knowledge and understanding

5. GCSE specifications must require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of at least six critically recognised, culturally and historically significant²

² “critically recognised, culturally and historically significant”: critically acclaimed through awards or nominations at major film awards (Oscars, BAFTAs) and major film festivals (Cannes, Berlin, Venice and Sundance); critically celebrated by the academy of film scholars and serious critics in the British Film Institute’s and American Film Institute’s ten yearly polls of the best films and the annual surveys carried out feature-length³ films and the contexts in which they were made. The six films will be selected from the following:

- at least two films produced within the US, at least one of which will be a Hollywood studio film produced between 1930 and 1960 and one will be an independent⁴ film
- at least two English language films produced outside the US, at least one of which will be a British film
- at least one non-English language film

6. At least one film will be a genre film, conforming to the quality threshold noted in paragraph 5, note 2, at least one film will be contemporary⁵ and at least one film will have been produced between 1961 and 1990.

7. GCSE specifications must require students to compare two of the set films in terms which include the films' contexts, narrative construction and the ways meanings and responses are generated (as stipulated in paragraphs 8 to 17).

8. GCSE specifications must require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

- the concept of genre including the conventions of genre based on iconography, characters, narratives and themes and the significance of genre to film producers and film audiences
- representation including the way films offer representations of gender, ethnicity, age and different cultures

9. GCSE specifications must require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of how the films studied reflect key developments in the history of film as well as the institutional (including how films are funded, how the level of production budget affects the kind of film made and the main stages of film production), technological, social, cultural, historical and, where relevant, political contexts in which they are made. Students must in addition gain a knowledge of the most significant developments in film including silent film, the rise of Hollywood, the development of sound, the introduction of colour film, widescreen technology, 3D film, portable cameras and steadicam technology and the role of computer generated imagery in film.

10. GCSE specifications must require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the following aspects of cinematography, including lighting, in the films studied:

by British Film Institute since 2007; and culturally and historically significant as featured in standard academic accounts of the medium. Awarding organisation film choices will be accompanied by a rationale to justify their inclusion against these criteria.

³ "feature-length": considered, for the purposes of specification design, to be a film of at least 80 minutes.

⁴ "independent film": at GCSE, a film produced outside the major commercial structures of, for example, Hollywood or Bollywood, but which is intended for cinematic release targeting a niche market.

⁵ "contemporary": released in UK from 2010 to present.

- camera shots including extreme close-ups, close-ups, medium shots, long shots, extreme long shots, high, low and 60° angle shots, tilt and aerial shots
- camera movement including pan, tracking, dolly and the use of steadicam technology
- lighting including position and intensity
- framing created through distance, angle, level and mobility and how it directs spectator attention
- the typical meanings associated with all of the above aspects of cinematography including lighting
- how each of the above contributes to the portrayal of characters and settings
- how cinematography can combine with mise-en-scène or sound to underline meaning
- how each of the above generates spectator responses

11. GCSE specifications must require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the following aspects of mise-en-scène in the films studied:

- settings, props, costume and make-up
- the typical meanings associated with each of the above aspects of mise-en-scène
- how mise-en-scène conventionally conveys realism
- how settings contribute to the themes and issues a film raises
- how props contribute to character and/or narrative development in the films studied
- how costume and make-up convey character
- how each of the above aspects of mise-en-scène generates spectator responses

12. GCSE specifications must require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the following aspects of editing in the films studied:

- types of edit (cut, dissolve, fade)
- the principles of continuity editing (shot-reverse shot)
- cross-cutting
- pace of editing
- visual effects (created in post-production)
- the typical meanings associated with all of the above aspects of editing
- how continuity editing establishes relationships between characters
- how cross-cutting contributes to the portrayal of character
- how editing contributes to narrative development in the films studied
- how editing, including visual effects, generates spectator responses

13. GCSE specifications must require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the following aspects of sound in the films studied:

- diegetic and non-diegetic sound, including ambient sound, sound effects and sound bridges
- the typical meanings associated with diegetic sound including how it contributes to character and narrative development
- the typical meanings associated with non-diegetic sound including how music motifs convey character and different types of music contribute to the narrative
- how non-diegetic sound in particular contributes to the themes and issues a film raises
- how sound, particularly music, whether diegetic or non-diegetic, generates spectator responses in the films studied

14. GCSE specifications must require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the following aspects of narrative:

- the distinction between plot and story
- the role of the screenplay in conveying plot and its realisation in visual terms
- cause and effect as a structural principle of narrative
- narrative techniques including ellipsis and withholding/releasing
- narrative conventions in screenwriting including three act structure, plot points, inciting incident and climax
- an interpretation of the narrative
- the role of character and character function in narrative
- how all of the above bullet points contribute to narrative development
- the themes and issues raised by narrative
- how narrative generates spectator responses

15. GCSE specifications must require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the aesthetic qualities of film, their significance and how filmmakers create aesthetic effects through specific film sequences.

16. GCSE specifications must require students to study specialist writing on film, including film criticism⁶, to develop their knowledge and understanding of the films they study and the key elements of film.

17. GCSE specifications must also require students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of subject-specific terminology associated with the subject content set out in this document (paragraphs 4 – 16).

⁶“specialist writing on film, including film criticism”: writing by film specialists, academics, practitioners and/or critics on film, including articles and reviews on film published in specialist film magazines, specialist books on film and text books. A list of required reading and/or a selection of writing in support of films selected will be provided by the awarding organisation.

Skills

18. GCSE specifications must require students to develop the skills to:

- analyse how films are constructed and how they reflect the institutional, technological, social, cultural, historical and (where relevant) political contexts in which they are made, drawing on the film criticism studied see paragraph 16 and note 8).
- compare two films (as stipulated in paragraph 7)

19. GCSE specifications must require students to apply knowledge and understanding of genre, as set out in paragraph 8, and of the relevant aspects of cinematography, mise-en-scène, sound and editing, as set out in paragraphs 10 to 13, to the construction of a genre-based extract from a film or screenplay to a brief set by the awarding organisation. Film and screenplay extracts must be individually produced.⁷ Work will include:

- production: a genre-based extract from a film or screenplay
 - an extract from a genre-based film or screenplay to a brief to be set by the awarding organisation
 - the screenplay must be accompanied by a shooting script of a key section from the screenplay
- analysis and evaluation
 - an evaluative analysis of the production in relation to other films and screenplays that have been professionally produced

⁷ Unassessed students and others may act in, or appear in, the film extract. In addition, unassessed students and others may operate lighting and sound equipment under the direction of the assessed candidate if required.
