Summary Statistics for Schools in Scotland, No.4 | 2013 Edition 11th December, 2013

This document is the fourth issue of an annual summary of statistics bulletin that brings together information from the following sources:

- The annual census of pupils and teachers in publicly funded schools in Scotland, conducted on 18th September 2013
- Information on pre-school education centres in Scotland, collected in the week commencing 16th September 2013
- School Estate survey data for financial year 2012-13, for all schools open on 1st April 2013
- Information on Attendance and Absence and exclusions from school is now collected on a biennial basis and was collected for the 2012/13 academic year

Information on pre-school and primary teacher numbers for 2010 onwards have been amended in this publication to remove teachers who were double counted as a result of working in both sectors. Therefore, any previously published figures based on 2010, 2011 or 2012 pre-school or primary teacher numbers are now superseded and should not be used.

Main Statistics

1.1 The total FTE number of teachers based in pre-school, primary, secondary and special schools, or visiting specialists, was 51,078, which is 175 fewer than the 2012 figure of 51,253. (Table 1.1). Of these 50,932 were in local authority schools compared to 51,100 in 2012 (Table 2.1).

1.2 In 2013, the pupil teacher ratio in all publicly funded schools remained the same at 13.5. In primary schools the PTR was 16.5, (up from 16.3 in 2012). In 2013, in secondary schools the PTR remained the same at 12.2. (Table 1.1)

1.3 79 per cent of teachers on the 2012/13 Probationer Induction Scheme were in permanent or temporary employment in publicly funded schools in September 2013, an increase from 75 per cent the previous year. (Table 2.5)

1.4 In September 2013, 72.8 per cent of pre-school children in centres had access to a GTCs registered teacher during census week, down from 75.4 the previous year. (Table 6.2)

1.5 The average class size for pupils in the first three years of primary (P1 to P3) increased from 22.6 in 2012 to 23.2 in 2013. The percentage of these pupils who were in class sizes of 18 or fewer dropped from 18.8 per cent in 2012 to 13.6 per cent in 2013 (Tables 3.1 and 3.2). 99.0 per cent of P1 pupils were in classes of 25 or fewer. The overall average class size in primary has increased from 22.7, in 2012 to 23.2 in 2013.

1.6 Absence (authorised and unauthorised) across all sectors was 6.4 per cent in 2012/13, a decrease from 6.8 per cent recorded in 2010/11. (Table 4.1). Absence from school due to temporary exclusion accounted for 0.04 per cent of school days, slightly lower than in previous years.

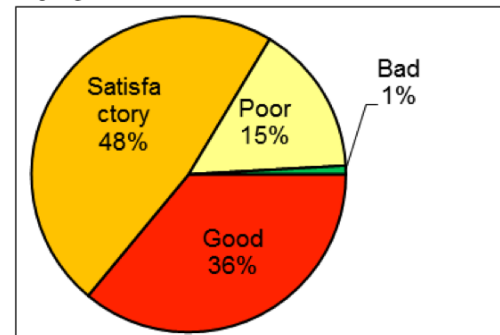

1.7 During 2012/13 there were 21,936 cases of exclusion from local authority schools in Scotland, a decrease of 18 per cent from 2010/11 (26,844 exclusions) (Table 5.1).

1.8 The proportion of schools reported as being in good or satisfactory condition has increased from 61 per cent in April 2007 to 82 per cent in April 2013. (Table 7.2). The number of pupils educated in poor or bad condition schools has decreased from 256,794 (37 per cent of pupils) in April 2007 to 109,704 (16 per cent of pupils) in April 2013.

Introduction

This publication brings together a wide range of information on school and pre-school education in Scotland and covers: pupils, teachers, pre-school children, school attendance, exclusions, and school buildings.

In Scotland, education typically starts with pre-school. Local authorities have a duty to secure a part-time funded place for every child starting from the beginning of the school term after the child's third birthday. 'Ante pre-school' typically refers to children who are three years old and 'pre-school' to children who are four years old. Pre-school education can be provided by local authority centres, or private and voluntary providers under a partnership arrangement.

Children whose 5th birthday falls between the start of March one year and the end of February the next year usually start school together in the August in the middle of that period (when they will be between 4½ and 5½ years old). Parents have the right to defer their child's entry to primary school provided that the child is still five years old when he or she starts school. Primary schools are organised in classes, by age, from primary 1 (P1) to primary 7 (P7). There is no streaming of pupils by ability and pupils are automatically promoted by age from one class to the next. Each class is normally the responsibility of a class teacher who teaches all or most of the curriculum. Education authorities frequently provide support by employing specialist teachers who help in such subjects as drama, art and physical education, who normally teach in several different schools.

Secondary education in Scotland runs for up to 6 years (S1-S6). After four years of Secondary School, pupils, now aged 15 or 16 take their first set of qualifications (currently Access 3, National 4, National 5, Intermediate 1 or Intermediate 2). Some young people leave school at this point, but many choose to stay on to complete S5 and S6 in order to attain Higher and Advanced Higher level qualifications or further qualifications at the other levels previously mentioned. Higher or Advanced Higher qualifications (or equivalent) are required for entry into Higher Education.

General

Table 1.1 shows the number of school, pupils and teachers in publicly funded schools in Scotland. In September 2013 there were 102,871 children in 2,504 pre-schools, 377,382 pupils in 2,056 primary schools, 289,164 pupils in 364 secondary schools and 6,984 pupils in 149 special schools. The proportion of pupils in special schools continues to be about one per cent, however the number of pupils in special schools has increased from 6,673 in 2009 to 6,984 in 2013. The total number of teachers in all sectors was 51,078, 175 fewer than the revised 2012 figure of 51,253.

The pre-school and primary teacher numbers for 2010 onwards have been amended to remove teachers who were double counted as a result of working in both sectors. The amendments to the primary sector account for about 0.2% in each year, the changes to the pre-school sector account for around a 2% decrease in 2010 and 2011, and a 7% decrease in 2012. Therefore, any previously published figures based on 2010, 2011 or 2012 pre-school or primary teacher numbers should not be used. See background note 3.4 for details.

Teachers

Teachers

Table 2.1 shows the teacher numbers in publicly funded schools for all sectors. There were 22,905 teachers in primary schools, 23,695 in secondary schools, 2,020 in special schools, 1,170 employed centrally and 1,256 in pre-school centres. In 2013, there were 50,932 teachers in local authority schools (including centrally employed teachers), compared to 51,100 in 2012.

(2) Includes partnership pre-school centres.

(3) See background note 3.4 for information on double counting of teacher FTE between primary and pre-school centres.

(4) In September 2013 there were eight grant aided schools, one mainstream with primary and secondary departments, and seven special schools. These schools are included in national totals, but are identified separately in local authority level tables.

Teachers

Table 2.2 shows the pupil teacher ratios (PTRs) in publicly funded schools for all sectors (excluding pre-schools). PTRs give, on a comparable basis, a measure of the size of the workforce given the different sizes of the pupil population. Scotland saw an improving pupil teacher ratio in local authority schools, with less pupils per teacher between 2005 and 2008. From 2008 it increased gradually to reach 13.5 in 2011, and it has remained at this level since then. The increase in PTR is partly due to the increase in the proportion of pupils in the primary sector, which has larger PTRs. Figures vary across local authorities over time. The largest increases in PTRs this year were seen in Glasgow City and Dundee City, the largest decreases in PTRs were seen in Orkney Islands and Midlothian.

Teachers

One of the most important uses of the data collected in the teacher census is in modelling future changes in the workforce in order to provide guidance on the number of new teachers to train. Chart 1 shows the age profile of school teachers and the change since 2004. The age profile shows a peak at age 55 and 57, however the proportion of teachers aged 50+ has reduced since early in the last decade. There is also now a peak forming in the late twenties and early thirties.

Chart 1: Age profile, school based teachers, 2004 to 2013

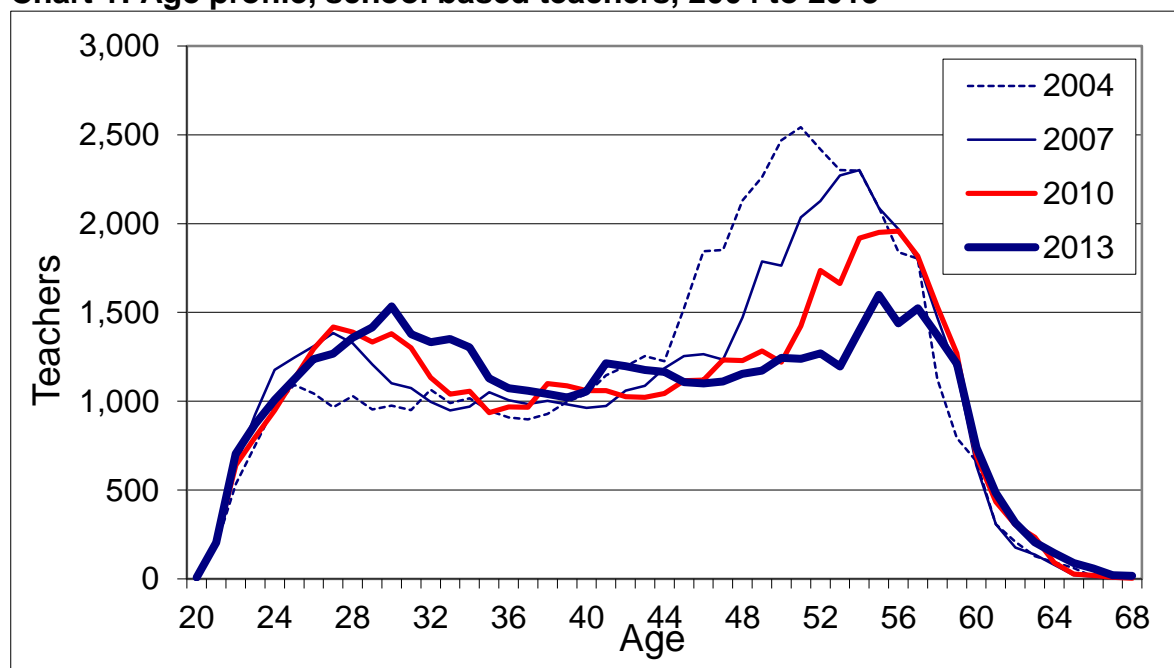

Chart 2 shows the age profile of GTCS registered pre-school teachers, where known, as at September 2013. The number of teachers generally increases with age, with a peak in the number of pre-school teachers aged between 54 and 58.

Chart 2: Age profile, pre-school teachers, 2013

(based on 1,568 GTCS registered pre-school teachers where age was reported)

Teachers

Table 2.3 shows main teacher characteristics, including gender, age, ethnicity, employment type, grade and mode of working, by sector.

The proportion of teachers who were male was 23 per cent. In promoted posts this proportion was 30 per cent, with the figure being 25 per cent for heads and deputies. The average (mean) age of primary, secondary and special school teachers was 42.1 compared to 42.2 in 2012 and 44.1 in 2004.

The proportion of teachers who had temporary contracts (including probationers) was 16 per cent (the same as last year). 13.4 per cent of teachers were working part-time, with the rate higher amongst females (15.7 per cent) than males (5.7 per cent).

Teachers

In the September 2013 census there were 2,132 teachers in the teacher induction scheme (2,044 in 2012), of which 1,158 were in primary schools and 974 were in secondary schools.

In 2013, a higher proportion of teachers were able to secure a teaching post following their one year guaranteed probationer post under the Teacher Induction Scheme. This is the result of a reduction in the number of students entering initial teacher education in 2009 and 2010, resulting in fewer post-probationers and probationers available to fill posts in 2011 and 2012. As part of the 2011 budget, local authorities agreed to secure places for all probationers who require one under the teacher induction scheme.

Table 2.4 shows the percentage of post-probationers from recent induction cohorts who were in publicly funded permanent or temporary posts at the time of the next census. The proportion increased from 75 per cent in 2012 to 79 per cent in 2013. Other teachers may be in the independent sector or may have found supply work, but this is not recorded in the census.

In table 2.4 the "Other" category includes those teaching elsewhere, including in the independent sector, those who have found supply work, and those who are unemployed or who have left teaching. Table 2.5 shows that some of these teachers secure posts as they become available later in the year or in subsequent years. For example while 63 per cent of the 2008/09 cohort were present in the 2010 census, 68 per cent were in the 2011 census, 69 per cent in the 2012 census, and 70 per cent in the 2013 census.

Classes and Pupils

Classes and pupils

Table 3.1 shows the distribution of P1-P3 pupils in publicly funded schools by ranges of class size. The Scottish Government is committed to working with local authorities to maintain the reductions in class size in the early stages of primary education seen in recent years, and will continue with progressive reductions in the future. In particular, one of the manifesto commitments, made by the Scottish National party in 2007, was to reduce P1-P3 class sizes to 18 or less.

At September 2013, 13.6 per cent of P1-P3 pupils were taught in classes of 18 or fewer (including those taught by two teachers at all times with a class size of 36 or less), down 5.2 percentage points from 2012. The number of pupils taught in classes of 26 or more decreased from 57,424 in 2006 to a low of 32,702 in September 2009, before increasing again. In September 2013, the number of pupils taught in classes of 26 or more was 43,644 which is 25.8 per cent of pupils.

(1) The percentage of P1-P3 pupils in classes of 18 or fewer include two-teacher classes with 36 or less. Classes taught by two teachers at all times are treated as two classes of half the size.

Table 3.2 shows the average class size for pupils in primary school. Class size data are not collected in the secondary sector as class size varies widely across subjects.

The overall average class size in primary was 23.2 in 2013, up from 22.7 in 2012.

The average class size for a P1-P3 pupil in 2013 was 23.2, up from 22.6 in 2012. As part of the 2010 budget agreement local authorities were committed to maintaining pupil teacher ratios in P1-P3. It is not possible to calculate P1-P3 pupil teacher ratios from the census data, and average class size, together with overall pupil teacher ratios in primary (see table 1.1) are considered the nearest proxy measures.

(1) Data refer to the average class size of pupils in each stage, not the average class size of single stage classes. The total average class size is calculated on a different basis than the P1 to P3 class sizes, see background note 3.6

Classes and Pupils

Legislation was introduced in November 2010 to limit class sizes for P1 pupils to 25. Table 3.3 shows the number of P1 pupils by class size. Some P1 pupils may be in classes of over 25 due to the inclusion of one or more “excepted pupil” (see background note 3.5).

Table 3.3: Number of P1 pupils by class size, 2006 to 2013

(1) Pupil numbers were corrected on 01 February 2012 to adjust for a two teacher class in P1 which had been treated as a large class.

Classes and Pupils

Table 3.4 shows the percentage of P1-P3 pupils in classes of 18 or fewer. These vary considerably between local authorities. The existence of large numbers of small schools in some areas is one of the main reasons for this. The national level of pupils in classes of 18 or fewer, rose from 12.7 per cent in 2006 to 21.6 per cent in 2010, before decreasing to 13.6 per cent in 2013.

Classes and Pupils

Table 3.5 shows pupil characteristics. These data are used primarily in equalities monitoring.

88.8 per cent of pupils were recorded as being White-Scottish or White-other British. The largest other ethnic backgrounds include White-Other (3.6 per cent), Asian Pakistani (1.8 per cent) and Mixed (1.1 per cent).

131,621 pupils (19.5 per cent of all pupils) had an additional support need recorded. This will include pupils in special schools and those in mainstream schools with a Co-ordinated Support Plan (CSP), Individualised Education Programme, Child Plan or some other type of support.

Attendance and Absence

Attendance and Absence

Schools record information on pupils attendance and absence from school and the reasons for this. This information is used to monitor pupil engagement and also to ensure pupils safety and wellbeing by following up on pupils who do not attend school. The Scottish Government published detailed guidance in 2007 on promoting good attendance at school and effective management of absenteeism (see: <http://www.scotland.gov.uk/Publications/2007/12/05100056/0> ).

Table 4.1 shows school attendance, absence and temporary exclusion rates over the period 2007/08 to 2012/13. Information on attendance and absence was not collected in 2011/12, as this data is now collected only once every two years.

Variations in recording practice for reasons for absence, between local authorities and over time, means that values and comparisons for certain detailed absence reasons, sickness and truancy in particular, are not reliable. The full breakdown of categories by local authority for 2012/13, available in the supplementary tables, shows which local authorities appear to be under-recording these reasons for absence. These data, and Table 4.1 below, do however show levels of absence as recorded by schools. Comparisons of overall attendance, overall absence and temporary exclusions are considered valid over time and between local authorities.

Since 2007/08 pupils' rate of attendance has increased from 93.2 to 93.6 per cent in 2012/13.

(1) Detailed absence reasons will be affected by differing reporting practices across local authorities and over time. Overall absence and attendance are comparable.

(2) Information on attendance is now collected on a biennial basis see background note 2.6 for more information.

Attendance and Absence

Table 4.2 shows the 2012/13 national attendance rate across each sector broken down by gender, ethnicity, additional support needs and the Index of Multiple Deprivation (SIMD, 20% most deprivation (MD) versus 20% least deprivation (LD)).

Pupils with additional support needs in mainstream schools again had a lower attendance rate than pupils with no additional support needs, with the difference again being greater in secondary school.

Pupils living in areas with higher levels of deprivation had lower attendance rates, with the effect being greater in secondary and special school. In secondary schools, pupils living in areas associated with most deprivation (based on lowest 20 per cent of the Scottish Index of Multiple Deprivation 2012 (SIMD)) had an attendance rate 5.6 percentage points lower than the pupils living in areas associated with least deprivation.

Attendance and Absence

Table 4.3 shows local attendance rates over the period 2007/08 to 2012/13. In 2012/13 the percentage attendance in Scottish local authority schools ranged from 92.3 per cent to 95.5 per cent. This range of variation in attendance rates is consistent with the preceding years.

Exclusions

Exclusions

In Scotland, the power exists to exclude children and young people from school where it is considered that to allow the child or young person to continue attendance at school would be seriously detrimental to order and discipline in the school or the educational wellbeing of the learners there. However, the number of exclusions has been falling year on year since 2006/07. This reflects ongoing hard work by schools and local authorities and a real concerted effort to improve relationships and behaviour and work with our children and young people most at risk of exclusion.

Table 5.1 below provides information on the number of cases of exclusion in recent academic years. Information on exclusions was not collected in 2011/12, as this data is now collected only once every two years. Over 99.9 per cent of all exclusions are for a fixed period of time, referred to here as temporary exclusions, and pupils are expected to return to their original school when the exclusion period is completed. In a small number of cases, 18 in 2012/13, an excluded pupil is 'removed from the register'. When this occurs a pupil does not return to their original school and will be educated at another school or in some other educational provision.

(1) Information on exclusions is now collected on a biennial basis see background note 2.6 for details

The exclusion rate per 1,000 pupils, for pupils who have an additional support need, is more than 4 times higher than those who have no additional support needs. Deprivation also plays an important factor in the likelihood of exclusion. Rates of exclusions per 1,000 pupils are more than 6 times greater for pupils living in the 20 per cent of areas associated with most deprivation, compared with pupils living in the 20 per cent associated with least deprivation, as defined by the Scottish Index of Multiple Deprivation.

Table 5.2: Cases of exclusion and rate per 1,000 pupils by gender, additional support needs and Scottish Index of Multiple Deprivation (SIMD 2012), 2012/13

Pre-school

Pre-school

Table 6.1 shows that there were 102,871 children registered for pre-school places funded by the local authority in September 2013, and that 101.5% of eligible children were registered for the ante-pre-school or pre-school year of pre-school education. Eligible children are estimated from mid-year population estimates. As children may be counted more than once if they are registered to receive local authority funded pre-school education at more than one centre this figure will overestimate true uptake.

Pre-school

Table 6.2 below shows that around three quarters of children at eligible pre-schools had access to a GTCS registered teacher during census week (72.8 per cent, down from 75.4 per cent the previous year). This includes children whose access was to a teacher providing only ad hoc or occasional support. Some local authorities only ensure access to teachers for ante- and pre-school children (3 and 4 year olds). The number of children with access to a teacher as a proportion of just ante- and pre-school children (rather than all children) is 83.5 per cent.

Pre-school

As a result of the double counting of teachers between pre-schools and schools outlined in Background Note 3.4, local authorities were given the opportunity to revise their teacher numbers for 2010, 2011 and 2012. Inverclyde also took the opportunity to record pupil numbers in three additional pre-school centres which were not counted in the 2012 pre-school census. The revised pupil and teacher data for 2010, 2011 and 2012 are shown in Table 6.3.

School Estates

School Estates

As part of the School Estates Core Facts survey information is collected on the size, condition, suitability and capacity of all schools open on 1st April 2013. Information is also collected on all schools that had been rebuilt or substantially refurbished during the financial year 2012-13. This information is used to monitor the progress that has been made in improving the school estate. The figures below show that over the last six financial years, a total of 463 schools have been rebuilt or substantially refurbished. Only rebuilds or refurbishments with a cost of £0.5 million or more for primary and £1 million or more for secondary and special schools were included.

Table 7.1: Number of schools which were built or substantially refurbished, 2007-08 to 2012-13<sup>(1)</sup>

(1) Figures for 2010-11 have been corrected to take account of information received in the 2012 school estates collection and differ by 1 from previously published figures. See background notes 3.20 for more details.

As a result of the investment and reorganisation of the school estate, the proportion of schools in good or satisfactory condition has increased from 61 per cent in April 2007 to 82 per cent in April 2013. Taking into account the different number of pupils in each school, this has resulted in the number of pupils in good or satisfactory condition schools rising from 61 per cent in April 2007 to 84 per cent in April 2013.

(3) 2010 and 2012 have been corrected to take account of revised condition information for 4 East Dunbartonshire schools in 2010 and 3 in 2012 and differ slightly from previously published figures.

As well as collecting information on the condition of school building we also started collecting information on their suitability from April 2010 onwards. Suitability is different from condition as it considers how well suited the school building and facilities are to pupils learning rather than what condition they are in.

(1) See background notes 3.19 for more information on the suitability ratings.

(2) This comes from the number of pupils on the school roll in the Pupil Census returns for the previous September, e.g. September 2012 for the April 2013 figures. So schools which opened after September but before April will not have any pupils recorded for that academic year.

(3) Figures for 2010, 2011 and 2012 have been corrected to take account of revised suitability information for 1 East Dunbartonshire school in 2010, 39 in 2011 and 1 in 2012 and so differ slightly from previously published figures.

The proportion of schools with a good or satisfactory suitability has increased from 74 per cent in April 2010 to 80 per cent in April 2013. Taking into account the different number of pupils in each school, this has resulted in the number of pupils in schools with a good or satisfactory suitability increasing from 76 per cent in April 2010 to 82 per cent in April 2013.

BACKGROUND NOTES

1. Sources

1.1 The information in this publication is derived from a number of sources: the pupil census, the staff census, the pre-school education census, the attendance and absence collection, and the school estates core facts survey. The 2013 pupil and staff censuses were carried out on 18th September 2013. The pre-school education census took place in the week commencing 16th September 2013. The attendance and absence data is based on school attendance levels recorded during the previous academic year, so the latest information available is for 2012/13. The school estates core facts survey is based on all schools open on 1 April 2013 and schools rebuilt during the 2012-13 financial year.

2. Coverage and Timing

2.1 The staff and pupil censuses cover all publicly funded schools in Scotland (local authority and grant-aided). Where a school has more than one department, for example a secondary school with a primary department, these are counted as separate schools.

2.2 Information on the attendance and absence of pupils is provided to the Scottish Government by the local authorities and managers of mainstream grant-aided schools. The information reported in this compendium does not cover attendance and absence in grant-aided special schools, independent schools or pre-school establishments.

2.3 The information shown for attendance and absence and exclusions is for the academic year 2012/13. Schools which closed during the academic session 2012/13, and for which data was available, were included.

2.4 The pre-school education census covers all centres providing pre-school education that is funded by local authorities. Services that reported to the census that they did not provide pre-school education are not included in this publication. Not all services providing pre-school education responded to the census. The response rate was 93 per cent, an increase from 81 per cent in 2012 and local authorities were involved in validating the pre-school returns. For the remaining 7 per cent of pre-school centres information has been imputed (i.e. rolled forward) using information from the September 2012 census. In September 2013, there were seven centres where this was not possible (e.g. because the centre has opened after September 2012). Pre-school home visiting teachers reported by local authorities are included in tables 1.1 and 1.2 in addition to the data collected in the pre-school census.

2.5 The school estates core facts survey covers all publicly funded local authority schools. It does not cover grant aided schools, independent schools or pre-school establishments.

2.6 As a result of the September 2010 consultation of users of school statistics, and changes to the legislation around school handbooks, we have made a number of changes to our collections and publications, this included moving the absence and exclusions data to a biennial (once every two years) collection. As a result of this we collected data for the 2012/13 academic year but not the 2011/12 academic year. Local authorities still collect information on pupils attendance, absence and exclusions each year on their management information systems. So, if yearly information is required this can be requested direct from local authorities.

3. Definitions and Data Quality

For further information on our quality assurance process, see the School Education statistics Validation Process section on the Scottish Government website at: <http://www.scotland.gov.uk/Topics/Statistics/Browse/School-Education/collectionprocess>

Teachers and schools (Tables 2.1 – 2.5)

3.1 Figures for the special school sector are compiled from special schools only, and do not include teachers of special classes in mainstream schools. There may be inconsistency between schools and between local authorities in the reporting of special schools and special classes, as well as changes between years. We therefore advise caution when comparing results with previous years and across local authorities. A few authorities do not have special schools, and may fund places in neighbouring authorities for their pupils. The number of special schools includes those where there were no pupils based, but which received pupils based in other schools.

3.2 There are some differences in the way in which authorities deal with centrally employed teachers. In some cases these visiting specialists are considered as allocated to the schools where they teach, and have been included, with relevant partial FTE, in the school-level data. In other cases they are included as centrally employed staff. Therefore it might be better to compare total FTE or divide any centrally employed teachers across the other sectors if you wish to compare figures between local authorities. Although centrally employed teachers are a small proportion of the total FTE, only around 2 per cent at Scotland level, so the effect of these different recording methods is small. We are also aware that local authorities have changed procedures for reporting centrally employed teachers during recent years, so figures are not necessarily comparable over time, unless you adjust as suggested above.

3.3 The accuracy of the reported number of teachers in pre-schools is affected by non-response to the pre-school survey. Please see background note 2.4.

3.4 In 2012, we identified the possibility that some teachers who worked in pre-school and primary were being double counted, but were unable to resolve this at that time. In 2013, we contacted all local authorities and gave them the opportunity to change their teacher numbers for 2010, 2011 and 2012 to remove this double counting. As a result of this, eight local authorities amended their pre-school teacher numbers (Angus, East Dunbartonshire, Midlothian, North Lanarkshire, Perth and Kinross, Shetland Islands, South Ayrshire and South Lanarkshire), three local authorities amended both primary and pre-school teacher numbers (Aberdeenshire, Highland, Orkney), and one local authority (West Lothian) amended their primary school teacher numbers only. This has resulted in minor changes to the primary teacher numbers and substantial changes to the pre-school teacher numbers in 2010,

2011 and 2012. Therefore, any previously published figures that use these years of pre-school or primary teacher numbers are now superseded and should not be used.

Pupil numbers (Tables 3.1 – 3.5)

3.5 A class is a group of pupils normally supervised by one teacher. However, when a class is large and cannot be split, for instance an additional classroom is not available, team teaching may be used. Team teaching is when two teachers are present in the class at all times. When this occurs, the pupil teacher ratio will not exceed maximum class size regulations.

Maximum class sizes in primary schools are as follows:

- 25 for pupils in P1
- 30 for single stage class P2 or P3
- 33 for single stage class P4-P7
- 25 for composite stage class

Excepted pupils in class-size legislation are –

(a) children whose record of additional support needs specify that they should be educated at the school concerned, and who are placed in the school outside a normal placing round;

(b) children initially refused a place at a school, but subsequently on appeal offered a place outside a normal placing round or because the education authority recognise that an error was made in implementing their placing arrangements for the school;

(c) children who cannot gain a place at any other suitable school within a reasonable distance of their home because they move into the area outside a normal placing round;

(d) children who are pupils at special schools, but who receive part of their education at a mainstream school; and

(e) children with additional support needs who are normally educated in a special unit in a mainstream school, but who receive part of their lessons in a non-special class.

3.6 All class size calculations treat a two-teacher class as two classes with half the pupils in each. Total average class size is calculated by dividing the number of pupils by the number of classes. Average class size for pupils in a particular stage (or range of stages) uses the average class size experienced by pupils, which therefore takes into account the number of pupils experiencing each class size. For example, if three pupils are in a class of three and one pupil is in a class of one, the average of three, three, three and one is 2.5.

3.7 It is not possible to calculate pupil teacher ratios (PTRs) for P1-P3 pupils separately as we are unable to identify the proportion of time teachers work with P1-P3 pupils. Class size information for P1-P3 classes is available, however, this only includes the class teacher and does not include the input received from other teachers (i.e. head teachers, specialist teachers (music, PE, ASN)) as it is not possible to allocate their time to a specific group.

3.8 Education authorities must have arrangements in place to identify pupils with additional support needs and from among them those who may require a Co-ordinated Support Plan (CSP) and the particular additional support needs of the pupils so identified. Individualised Educational Programmes (IEPs) are written plans setting targets that a child with additional support needs is expected to achieve. Targets should be limited in number and focus on key priorities of learning. They should be simple, clearly expressed and measurable.

The statutory criteria and content for a CSP and IEP can be found in the supporting children's learning code of practice at:

<http://www.scotland.gov.uk/Publications/2011/04/04090720/0>

Attendance and Absence (Tables 4.1 – 4.2)

3.9 Percentages for authorised and unauthorised absence relate to the total number of possible attendances. For many schools this is 380 half-day sessions during the school year. However, all but two schools in the Lothians and Edinburgh and three schools in Highland operate 342 (longer) half-day sessions in the school year.

3.10 The data for attendance and absence is partly affected by ongoing differences in recording procedures across local authorities and over time. Therefore caution should be taken when comparing local authorities and when considering year on year national level figures, particularly for sickness, other authorised absence and truancy.

3.11 Pupils arriving late are marked as such, with a distinction made for those arriving in the second half of a morning or the second half of the afternoon. Where summary data is necessary, if a pupil has attended most of an opening it is counted as attendance, but if they have been absent for most of a session it is included as authorised absence. They are of course still separately identified as being late but present for some of the time in the schools' systems for management purposes. Schools were also given the possibility of including all late marks on a pupil's record as attendance, if it is deemed beneficial for encouraging attendance. The distinction is also used in judging attendance records of those receiving bursaries and allowances.

Pre-schools (Table 6.1 – 6.3)

3.12 As in previous years, pre-school education centres were asked how many children had access to a General Teaching Council for Scotland (GTCS) registered teacher during census week. In the guidance notes, "access to a teacher" was defined as "the teacher being present in a pre-school education setting when the child is in attendance", and it was acknowledged that systems for providing access to teachers vary.

3.13 Pre-school education centres were also asked whether they received occasional or ad hoc support from any external GTCS registered teachers. This could be instead of, or in addition to, any teacher(s) providing pre-school education under a regular arrangement.

3.14 Full-time equivalent is defined as the total number of hours worked by all staff members divided by the number of hours in a standard full-time working week, which was specified as 35 hours.

3.15 In 2010 the date of the pre-school census was moved from January to September and, as a result, data collected prior to September 2010 are not directly comparable to figures collected from September 2010 onwards. This is particularly the case for the number of children receiving ante-pre-school education (as the September census will not include children who become eligible and start to receive local authority funded pre-school education in January). The revision to teacher numbers summarised in background note 3.4 also means that pre-school teacher data is not comparable prior to 2010. These revisions do not affect the percentage of eligible children receiving pre-school education, or the percentage of children who have 'access' to a pre-school teacher.

School Estates (Table 7.1 – 7.3)

3.16 Only rebuilds or refurbishments with a cost of £0.5 million or more for primary, and £1 million or more for secondary and special schools have been included. Where a school is being refurbished or rebuilt as part of a phased project, this is only included once a phase (or a couple of phases combined) is completed and has a value greater than or equal to the amounts stated above. In order to avoid recording a school once a year over several years, any subsequent phases will not be recorded.

3.17 In order to ensure consistency across local authorities – new guidance on assigning condition ratings to schools – The Condition Core Fact (available from www.scotland.gov.uk/schoolestate) – was published in March 2007. All local authorities are now following this guidance when assigning condition ratings to schools. Prior to 2009/10, some local authorities were not following this guidance, so some of the improvement in condition ratings over the years may reflect the adoption of this guidance.

3.18 The condition of a school is based on the following criteria, as assessed by local authorities:

- Condition A: Good – Performing well and operating efficiently.
- Condition B: Satisfactory – Performing adequately but showing minor deterioration.
- Condition C: Poor – Showing major defects and/or not operating adequately.
- Condition D: Bad – Economic life expired and/or risk of failure.

3.19 In order to ensure consistency across local authorities – guidance on assigning suitability ratings to schools – The Suitability Core Fact (available from <http://www.scotland.gov.uk/Publications/2008/09/19123626/0>) – was published in October 2008. The Suitability of a school is based on the following criteria, as assessed by local authorities:

- Condition A: Good – Performing well and operating efficiently.
- Condition B: Satisfactory – Performing adequately but with minor problems
- Condition C: Poor – Showing major problems and/or not operating optimally
- Condition D: Bad – Does not support the delivery of services to children and communities

3.20 Previously published figures on number of schools rebuilt should not be used as the 2007-08 and 2008-09 data was amended in 2009-10 following a robust quality assurance process and the 2009-10 was corrected in 2012 to reflect more accurate information received during the collection of the 2010-11 data. During the collection of the 2012 School estates data, it was discovered that one school had been incorrectly recorded as rebuilt or refurbished in 2010/11. It had in fact been rebuilt in the 2011/12 financial year. The information in this and the 2012 publication, and in the 2011 school estates data set has been changed to reflect this.

5. Costs

5.1 Pupil census, teacher census and attendance and absence and exclusion data. This information is collected from the management information systems of schools. However, the estimated cost to local authorities of extracting and validating this information is around £170,000.

5.2 Pre-school census This information is collected directly from pre-school centres and we have no information on how much it costs them to complete this. However, local authorities have taken on a role in validating the pre-school data and it costs them an estimated £2,500 to do this.

5.3 School Estates We currently do not have estimates of the cost of this surveys but are planning to collect this information in 2014.

6. Rounding and symbols

6.1 All percentages and FTEs are rounded separately and breakdowns may consequently not sum to Scotland figures.

6.2 The following symbols are used:

.. = not available

- = nil or rounds to nil

= not applicable

7. General

7.1 This is a National Statistics publication. National Statistics are produced to high professional standards set out in the National Statistics Code of Practice. They undergo regular quality assurance reviews to ensure that they meet customer needs. They are produced free from any political interference.

A NATIONAL STATISTICS PUBLICATION FOR SCOTLAND

The United Kingdom Statistics Authority has designated these statistics as National Statistics, in accordance with the Statistics and Registration Service Act 2007 and signifying compliance with the Code of Practice for Official Statistics.

Designation can be broadly interpreted to mean that the statistics:

- meet identified user needs;
- are well explained and readily accessible;
- are produced according to sound methods, and
- are managed impartially and objectively in the public interest.

Once statistics have been designated as National Statistics it is a statutory requirement that the Code of Practice shall continue to be observed.

Further information about Official and National Statistics can be found on the UK Statistics Authority website at www.statisticsauthority.gov.uk
