Key stage 1

Publication: information leaflet for parents: KS1 results

We've published a leaflet to help parents understand what to expect in reports from schools about pupils' assessments at the end of key stage 1 (KS1). It describes the role of national curriculum tests and teacher assessments, as well as how results are used.

You might find it useful to refer parents of pupils attending your school to the leaflet, or to refer to its wording in your own reporting.

Key stage 2

Reminder: apply for a review of marking by 14 July

You have until midnight on Friday 14 July to apply for a review of marking, if you believe there is evidence that a mark scheme hasn't been applied correctly or a clerical error has occurred.

We've published guidance for headteachers, who should apply in the 'Pupil results' section of NCA tools.

Publication: information leaflet for parents: KS2 results

We've published a leaflet to help parents understand what to expect in reports from schools about pupils' assessments at the end of KS2. It describes the role of national curriculum tests and teacher assessments, as well as how results are used.

You might find it useful to refer parents of pupils attending your school to the leaflet, or to refer to its wording in your own reporting.

Primary assessment

Information: maladministration of national curriculum assessments

The Standards and Testing Agency takes any reports of maladministration of the national curriculum assessments very seriously. We encourage anyone that has concerns about the administration of national curriculum tests or teacher assessment to contact STA via the national curriculum assessments helpline on 0300 303 3013, so that any allegations of maladministration can be properly investigated.

Reminder: complete our communications survey by 18 July

Thanks to those that have completed our annual communications survey. If you haven't done so already, please complete the survey by Tuesday 18 July. It should take just a few minutes to complete and will assist our communications planning for the 2018 to 2019 academic year.

Information: last planned assessment update of the year

This is the last planned assessment update for the 2017 test cycle. We will resume regular assessment updates in September. We hope you have a good summer break.
