Overview

This information is correct as of 1 July 2017.

There have been considerable changes in the number of system leaders, as previous applications can now be reported. As at 1 July 2017, across England there were:

- 642 teaching school alliances, an increase of 54 from 1 June 2017
- 814 teaching schools, an increase of 64 from 1 June 2017
- 1,290 national leaders of education, an increase of 27 from 1 June 2017
- 447 national leaders of governance, a decrease of 6 from 1 June 2017

Teaching schools and teaching school alliances

As at 1 July 2017 there were 642 teaching school alliances across England and 814 teaching schools. Both the number of teaching schools and the number of teaching school alliances have increased since 1 June 2017 due to the addition of previous application rounds.

Around 80% of teaching school alliances had one teaching school although a few had as many as 5 or 6. Teaching schools were present in all 9 English regions and in 149 out of 150 local authorities: the City of London and Isles of Scilly are excluded from this analysis as they only have one school.

The Isle of Wight is the only local authority not to have a teaching school although it should be noted that teaching schools and teaching school alliances can work across local authority boundaries.

Number of teaching schools by region

National leaders of education (NLEs)

As at 1 July 2017 there were 1,290 national leaders of education, an increase of 27 from the previous month. This is primarily due to the reporting of recent application rounds. The vast majority of NLEs belong to different schools and only 35 schools have 2 or more NLEs. NLEs were present in 149 out of 150 local authorities: the City of London and Isles of Scilly are excluded from this analysis as they only have one school.

The Isle of Wight is the only local authority to not have an NLE although NLEs can work across local authority boundaries. NLEs were present in all regions.
