Annex I: General Areas for the External Auditor to Consider

Policies for Disbursement of Funds

1 Have written policies been put in place by the institution that reflect DfES guidance. Have the policies been approved by governors and made widely available? should be raised in the external audit management letter and thereby brought to the attention of the audit committee and the corporation.

Administration Costs

2 Ensure that funds used by the institution to cover the costs of administration do not exceed 5% of the total allocation of LSF.

Learner Access Funds

3 Are course tutors involved in confirming the discretionary need?

Childcare Funds

4 Are childcare support costs met in the form of subsidised places or waived costs rather than in cash?

Residential Bursary Funds

5 Review payments to ensure that payments for residential costs do not exceed £3,500 per person in each academic year.

General

The auditors will exercise their professional judgement in terms of the findings of their review of learner support funds and its impact on the true and fair view opinion on the financial statements. Whilst it is unlikely that any issues in relationship to learner support funds would be sufficiently material to affect the opinion, these issues

Annex J: Examples of Good Management Practice

- 1 The following are examples of good practice which were noted by DfES officers during visits or which institutions suggested might usefully be brought to the notice of other institutions:
  - careful targeting of publicity for the funds
  - wide publicity for the availability of financial advice and support, rather than for access funds alone, ensuring that prospective students receive information which may encourage them to apply/enrol
  - ready availability of counsellors to discuss financial difficulties and possible means of support; many students do not seek advice until difficulties have reached crisis point
  - a well-publicised timetable for applications to be received, decisions taken and payments made at the start of each term
  - applications accepted only from students who could show that they had explored all other sources of support
  - using standard application forms to ensure a consistent basis for assessment
  - using a panel to make decisions on students' applications
  - prompt consideration and processing of applications (with very fast decision by chairman's action where a

- panel was in place) in cases of urgent need
- prioritisation of applications according to need
- identifying disadvantaged groups, for example, through research by student services staff
- one institution had agreed with the local education authority how discretionary awards and access funds might be deployed
- setting a maximum payment on the basis that spreading support widely although thinly provides better value for money than supporting a few students with high levels of need; to many students, a relatively small amount is crucial, for example, as a deposit on accommodation or to pay bills.
- disbursing an agreed proportion of funds at the start of the year, retaining the balance to cover unforeseen needs that may arise later in the year, including those of students who attain the age of 19 during the year
- applicants advised of decisions by letter with any necessary explanation; successful applicants are also advised of conditions attached and procedures for payment
- termly/monthly/weekly payments, as well-regulated cash flow encourages better budgeting by students and

- minimises losses where students abandon courses, enabling funds to be reallocated; instalment payments are conditional upon satisfactory attendance and progress
- wherever possible, making payments direct to a third party, for example, a crèche, childminder or the institution in the case of fees
- requiring students to sign an undertaking to repay funds if they abandon their course
- support from tutors, both by advising students about the funds and by reporting on students' attendance and progress where this was a condition of payment by instalments
- a formal appeals procedure for unsuccessful applicants
- maximising the amount of interest earned by using a high-interest, noncheque account from which funds are transferred as required into a current account
