UPDATED

September 2015: curriculum and qualifications

We introduced reformed GCSEs in English literature, English language and mathematics for first teaching in September 2015.

The first exams will be in summer 2017. They are the only

↑Contents

English and mathematics GCSEs that will count in the key stage 4 performance tables in 2017. Grading scores will range from 9 to 1.

2016 is the last year that current:

- English language GCSEs
- English literature GCSEs
- English (combined) GCSEs
- mathematics GCSEs
- level 1 and level 2 certificates in these subjects (sometimes known as IGCSEs) will count in the key stage 4 performance tables. The last exams in existing GCSEs graded A* to G in these subjects will be in summer 2016, with a single opportunity for retakes in the autumn. Schools should prepare for the second wave of new GCSEs starting in September 2016. Grading scores will range from 9 to 1. Ofqual is currently accrediting these qualifications, and awarding organisations will publish accredited specifications in these subjects in due course. Further information on GCSEs, AS levels and A levels accredited for September 2016 is available.

NEW

January 2016: curriculum and qualifications

We have made changes to how we count English qualifications in new headline secondary accountability measures from 2016.

Progress 8 and Attainment 8: if a student sits both English language and English literature, the higher grade is counted twice (double-weighted). The lower grade can count in the 'open' element of these measures.

The combined English language and literature qualification will be available for the last time in 2016. It will be double-weighted in the Progress 8 and Attainment 8 measures.

If pupils take only GCSE English literature or English language, this qualification will count, but will not be double-weighted.

Examples of calculating Progress 8 and Attainment 8 are included in the guidance.

English Baccalaureate: a pupil must study both English language and English literature and achieve a C grade or better in at least 1 of these qualifications (in 2016, a C in combined English will be sufficient). English and maths A* to C: a pupil would have to achieve a C grade or above in either English literature or English language. There is no requirement to sit both (in 2016, a C in combined English will be sufficient).

February 2016: curriculum and qualifications

We will publish data on 2015 school and college performance against the key stage 5 minimum standards.

UPDATED

Spring 2016: curriculum and qualifications

The Associated Board of the Royal Schools of Music has published 'Classical 100'. This is a free, web-based resource for all primary school teachers looking to introduce their pupils to classical music. It offers 100 pieces of music selected by primary school specialists to appeal to children's curiosity in music.

NEW

21 January 2016: pupils

We will publish final key stage 4 (KS4) and key stage 5 (KS5) destination measures data, including data on independent schools. This will show the 2013 to 2014 destinations of students who were included in the 2012 to 2013 KS4 or KS5 performance tables. Previous data is available.
