Summary

This is the latest in a series of publications to track the expansion of the network of system leaders. It presents the numbers of system leaders (NLEs, teaching schools and NLGs) designated by the National College for Teaching and Leadership as at 1 May 2017. Readers should be aware that that the figures in this publication may differ from the numbers derived from the school to school support directory, which is intended to be used as a live tool to find a teaching school or system leader.

Expiry or review date

This information is published on a monthly basis reflecting the latest data at the start of the month. The next update is due in June 2017.

Who is this publication for?

This publication is for:

- School leaders, school staff and governing bodies in all maintained schools, academies and free schools

Main points

As at 1 May 2017, across England there were:

- 589 teaching school alliances, a decrease of 1 from April 2017.
- 751 teaching schools, a decrease of 1 from April 2017.
- 1,278 national leaders of education, a decrease of 1 from April 2017.
- 464 national leaders of governance, a decrease of 28 from April 2017.

Introduction

The Education Excellence Everywhere White Paper published in March 2016 states that the Department for Education will significantly expand the number of teaching schools and national leaders of education – with a targeted approach focused on areas where they are most needed in order to create a comprehensive national network of school-led support for leaders to draw on as they choose. The paper also states a commitment to ensure all schools in all areas can access support, collaboration and best practice by ensuring full coverage of system leaders across the country, with up to 300 more teaching schools and 800 more NLEs targeted where most needed. In addition, the 2015 Conservative Manifesto committed to expand the National Leaders of Education programme.

Teaching Schools and Teaching School Alliances (TSAs)

Teaching schools¹ are strong schools that work with others to provide high-quality training and development to new and experienced school staff. They are part of the plan to give schools a central role in raising standards by developing educational excellence everywhere. Teaching School Alliances (TSAs) are a group of schools, led by a Teaching School that work together to bring about improvements across the schools, focussing on initial teacher training, school to school support and professional development.

As at 1 May 2017 there were 589 teaching school alliances across England and 751 teaching schools. The number of teaching schools has fallen by 1 as has the number of TSAs since April 2017. The majority of TSAs had one teaching school although a few had as many as 5 or 6. Teaching schools were present in all nine English regions and in 149 out of 150 local authorities (LAs)². The Isle of Wight is the only LA not to have a teaching school although it should be noted that teaching schools and teaching school alliances can work across local authority boundaries. The South East had the highest number of teaching schools with a total of 113 (15.0%), closely followed by London with 109 (14.5%). The North East had the lowest number of teaching schools with 45 (6.0%).

National Leaders of Education (NLEs)

National Leaders of Education³ are excellent head teachers who, together with the staff from their National Support Schools (NSS), provide direct support to other schools, particularly those in challenging circumstances to help them improve by providing additional leadership capacity and expertise.

As at 1 May 2017 there were 1,278 national leaders of education, a decrease of 1 from the previous month. The vast majority of NLEs belong to different schools and only 35 schools have 2 or more NLEs. NLEs were present in 149 out of 150 LAs⁴. The Isle of Wight is the only LAs to not have a NLE although NLEs can work across local authority boundaries. NLEs were present in all regions. The North West is the region with the highest number of NLEs at 187 (14.6% of all NLEs), closely followed by the South East with 179 (14.0%) and London with 177 (13.8%). The North East has the lowest number of NLEs at 73 (5.7%). .

National Leaders of Governance (NLGs)

National Leaders of Governance⁶ are highly effective chairs of governors who use their skills and experience to provide coaching and mentoring support to another chair of governors to improve school and academy performance. In some cases, they work in partnership with a National Leader of Education.

There were 464 NLGs as at 1 May 2017, a decrease of 28 from the previous month. 131 LAs had at least one NLG and NLGs were present in every region. Yorkshire and the Humber had the highest number of NLGs at 81 (17.5%) and the North East the lowest at 25 (5.4%).
