Contents

1. Advice and support for parents, children and teachers
2. Guidance for schools and colleges

1. Advice and support for parents, children and teachers

Childline provides an online resource that offers information and tips on dealing with any fears children may have in relation to a terrorist incident.

For children at school and young people at college, the local educational psychology services provide support and advice to individuals affected by a traumatic event, and help schools manage these situations.

1.1 Resources for teachers

The Personal, Social, Health and Economic (PSHE) Association has guidance and resources that provide practical suggestions for ways that teachers can structure questioning, discussion or further learning about events such as the Parsons Green attack. There are resources available for:

- primary schools
- secondary schools

2. Guidance for schools and colleges

Schools and colleges should approach their awarding organisations for specific advice, including on applications for special consideration for those affected by a terrorist attack. Ofqual has issued guidance on exams.

Is there anything wrong with this page?

Services and information

Benefits

Births, deaths, marriages and care

Business and self-employed

Childcare and parenting

Citizenship and living in the UK

Crime, justice and the law

Disabled people

Driving and transport

Education and learning

Employing people

Environment and countryside

Housing and local services

Money and tax

Passports, travel and living abroad

Visas and immigration

Working, jobs and pensions

Departments and policy

How government works

Departments

Worldwide

Policies

Publications

Announcements

Help Cookies Contact Terms and conditions Rhestr o Wasanaethau Cymraeg
Built by the Government Digital Service

OGL

All content is available under the Open Government Licence v3.0, except where otherwise stated

© Crown copyright